Place2Be	Childrens mental health charity, Place2Be, has launched a free programme of support and resources for keyworker parents and carers, including all NHS colleagues, to support the mental health and wellbeing of their children.	National	https://www.place2be.org.uk/ https://www.place2be.org.uk/nhs-webinar-series/
Cityparents	Cityparents offers a curated collection of positive and practical support for working parents, delivered through expert led-webinars, advice, peer insights, online articles , blogs and podcasts. Now available free of charge to everyone in the NHS.	National	https://www.cityparents.co.uk/

Place2Be have offered an online programme of expert support and resources to keyworkers, including all NHS colleagues.

These resources are available free of charge until 31 December 2020 and have been made possible through charitable donations, coordinated by a group of NHS doctors looking to support the mental health and wellbeing of keyworker children.

The programme consists of:

- Three webinars that cover: wellbeing and self-care; holding supportive conversations; understanding and managing anxiety in uncertain times
- An Art Room resource pack for children and parents and carers to craft and create together. The Art Room pack includes stories, instructions and activities exploring the ways in which parents and children can stay connected even when they're spending more time apart
